

20TH ANNIVERSARY CONFERENCE OF THE GROUPE D'ÉTUDE SUR L'INTERSUBJECTIVITÉ (GEI)

IMPLICIT NON-VERBAL FORMS OF INTERSUBJECTIVITY IN INFANT DEVELOPMENT AND THEIR IMPLICATIONS FOR ADULT TREATMENT*

Theorists of adult treatment have primarily described intersubjectivity in its verbal and explicit forms. In contrast, research on child development focuses on the implicit and procedural dimensions of communication. These fundamental processes of nonverbal interaction underlie verbal communication and shape each partner's expectations in future interactions...

Saturday April 26th, 2025 | online only

Approved for Continuing Education by the OPQ

For more information and to register:
<https://intersubjectivite.com/en>

On the occasion of the 20th anniversary of the founding of the GEI, we invite you to hear Beatrice Beebe, Ph.D., clinical psychologist and teacher at Columbia University. She is known for her research on the development of young children in interaction with their caregivers.

In the afternoon, she will present an overview of some of her research findings and their implications for adult treatment. In the morning, as an introduction, we will offer an overview of her work and the theory she has developed based on it, presented by Gabriel Lepage, assisted by Nathalie Parent (presented in French only). Registration for the afternoon only is available.

BEATRICE BEEBE, PHD

**The afternoon conference will be held in English while the introductions and questions will be in French, with simultaneous English interpretation at no additional cost.*

GROUPE D'ÉTUDE
SUR L'INTERSUBJECTIVITÉ

